Ayse Zarakol (University of Cambridge)

Chair: Milan Krstić (University of Belgrade – Faculty of Political Science)

Ayşe Zarakol is Professor of International Relations at the University of Cambridge and a Fellow of Emmanuel College. Her research lies at the intersection of historical sociology and international relations, focusing on East–West relations, the history and future of world order(s), conceptions of modernity and sovereignty, the rise and fall of great powers, and Turkish politics in comparative perspective. She is the author of After Defeat: How the East Learned to Live with the West (Cambridge University Press, 2011), which examines international stigmatization and the integration of defeated non-Western powers into the international order. Her most recent book, Before the West: The Rise and Fall of Eastern World Orders (Cambridge University Press, 2022), develops an alternative global history of international relations centered on (Eur)Asia and reconsiders concepts of sovereignty, order, and the decline of states and civilizations from a broader global perspective.
